ENGLISH COACHING – CONVERSATIONAL ENGLISH FOR DOCTORAL CANDIDATES FROM GERMANY AND ABROAD

Due to the internationalization of education and research excellent English language skills are essential for young researchers: Doctoral candidates have to present, chair and network at international conferences and to communicate and discuss in international teams and other international settings.

With this course, we would like to support you in meeting these challenges. The main goals of this course are to gain confidence in speaking English in an academic setting, to improve your presentation skills and to acquire useful phrasings and project-specific vocabulary.

The course consists of pair work, group work and individual feedback. The participants' needs and wishes will be incorporated into the course program.
